More than 150 crafters will exhibit their work during the 37th Annual Plumb Nellie Arts & Crafts Festival in Historic Downtown Branson on May 21-23 2010. The name "Plumb Nellie" is derived from an Old English expression that described street fairs in olden times when local farmers brought their produce and home crafts into the town square to sell. "Plumb" comes from the carpenter's plumb line that is used to be certain everything is square, and combined with "Nearly" (Nellie) it means perfectly nearly. It's a bit redundant and ungrammatical, but the old timers used to say, "You can find anything at the fair."
